

Name of the website: Beyond the Arc

Description: Beyond the Arc would be a website built around the fundamentals and knowledge of basketball, namely the NBA. The website would provide information about current nba players in-game statistics, positions, accomplishments, as well as teams statistics, history and more. Visitors would be able to explore the different players and teams while also learning about the fundamentals of basketball, including positions, a deep dive into the rules, and important game terminology. Images, galleries, and interactive features would be included throughout the website to make the information more engaging and visually appealing. The website would also include a quiz to determine which nba player you're most like.
